A CRUSHER.

We think we are approaching a point, in regard to the management of the county finances, by the Court House Ring, at which the tax-payers will stand aghast, and wonder why they have been fools so long, in trusting the management of their affairs to incompetent and intriguing men. We hope "Cato" will continue his investigations, leaving no stone unturned until this cabal is exposed, and the eyes of our honest Democratic farmers are opened wide to let in the light and the truth. But we have a new correspondent. An honest man, who does not wish to have his name heralded over the country through the Auditors Report, published in the newspapers, as a defaulting tax collector. We refer to the case of Henry I. Cartin, Esq Mr. Cartin is a consistant member of the Catholic church, a good citizen and has always borne a good character for honesty, industry, integrity. He was appointed by the County Commissioners Tax-collector for the borough of Bellefonte for the year 1871 He was a good collector, genteel at all times—never oppressing any one. About the first of February, 1872, he moved with his family to Brookville, Jefferson county, Pa.

On March 4th, having seen the REPUBLICAN in Brookville, containing the Auditors Report, he addressed a letter to his son James T. Cartin, from which we make by permission, the following extract:

"I see a statement in the REPUBLICAN "made by the Auditors and Commis- "sioners of Centre Co. I am astonished "that they claim of me $1,194. I think "these men ought not to try to blind the "eyes of the people by showing that "there is so much owed to the county "by collectors. I suppose other collec- "tors are treated the same as I am.

"I have paid into Treas. Wolf....	$2,000
Treasurer Weaver.....	500
Exonerations.....	150
Per centage.....	150
Total.....	$2,800

"Now any one can see the balance "which is due the county, and of that "balance I loaned to two men in Belle- "fonte: To one man I loaned $100, to "the other $50, which can be paid into "the treasury at any time I say so So, "just add on $1,194, there will be coming, "after I take 10 per cent. which I will, "on $3,194 dollars, just ninety four "(394) dollars to the county.

"Now it is not worth crying so loud "about $1,194. You may publish this "if you see proper, as many will think "that I have $1,194 in my hands."

Tax-payers of Centre what do you think of this? Are these the kind of outstanding claims with which the county officials, the custodians of your finances, propose to pay off the county debt? Henry I. Cartin is not the man to keep silence under such foul aspersions and attempts to injure his character, for the sake of bolstering up the rotten and corrupt Ring that is compelling you to pay a county tax of 6 mills on the dollar.

What collector will speak next? Or are you all afraid to speak? Will you consent to have your names published from year to year as "defaulting collectors," when in all probability you do not owe anything or at least not the 1-16 of what the Auditors and Commissioners, publish you as owing? We shall await your answer and further developments.

THE Columbia Spy urges the soldiers to vote for Gen. Jno. F. Hartranft, for Governor, in the following language: "Our soldier readers cannot afford to neglect the claims of Gen. Hartranft for the Governorship. The General rose from a company officer to Major-General, by reason of distinguished service. He was one of the few three months men who, though their turn of service had expired, volunteered for the Bull Run battle, and took part in the bloody conflict.

At Fort Steadman, Brig. Gen. Hartranft was promoted on the field, by President Lincoln in person, to the rank of major-general, a distinguished honor conferred on no other officer. Soldiers, vote for him."

Like the ancient quadruped that became loquacious beneath Balaam, the venerable Horace Greeley continues to bray at the national administration.

TARIFF AND FREE TRADE.

We are indebted to the publishers of the American Working People, for the accompanying sketch showing the contrast between tariff and free trade. It is a truthful picture. The workingmen of the country have in this journal an able and fearless champion, and every workingman should subscribe for it. Published by the Iron World Publishing Company, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Free trade has here produced its legitimate fruit—idleness and poverty.

Only two businesses thrive under it, whisky selling and the "old iron and rags" business. In the foreground we see an industrious but poverty stricken miner compelled to carry his tools with which in times past he had earned his bread, to the well dressed, well fed vulture in the shape of a man who buys iron and rags. He has no more need of his picks. The mine where he worked for years is empty and silent He has just returned from a hunt through it for the last few picks he could find that he might sell them for bread. The boats that used to wait impatiently at the tipple for his cargo of coal has stopped coming. The men that bought the coal have no money to buy. The mills and foundries and furnaces and shops that used it are closed and idle and need no more. They could not sell what they made because English goods come in cheaper. The farmers could not buy these cheap goods because they could not sell their corn and wheat and rye and oats. This poor man belonged to a free trade club, who believed that protective duties made everything dear—and he voted for free trade candidates at every election, until finally the free traders in Congress were strong enough to drag us into free trade with its consequent poverty. There is no school house where his children can be educated and they live in rags and idleness.

The ground beneath his feet is filled with coal, but he cannot dig it. He is selling for a few cents his power to earn his bread. His house is in ruins and his equally unhappy wife, with a neighbor woman and her son, are returning to the miserable place they still call home, with a bundle of sticks to build a fire to cook—what?

Despair is on his countenance, and well it may be, for starvation stares him in the face.

A few dispirited comrades hang around the village bar room to spend a few cents in drink. P. Murphy's Miners' Home is truly their only home. It is only when a glass or two of strong whisky deadens their senses to their poverty that they feel any happiness.

The coal road is broken, the cars are rotting, the mills in the distance are idle and in ruins, and general desolation prevails.

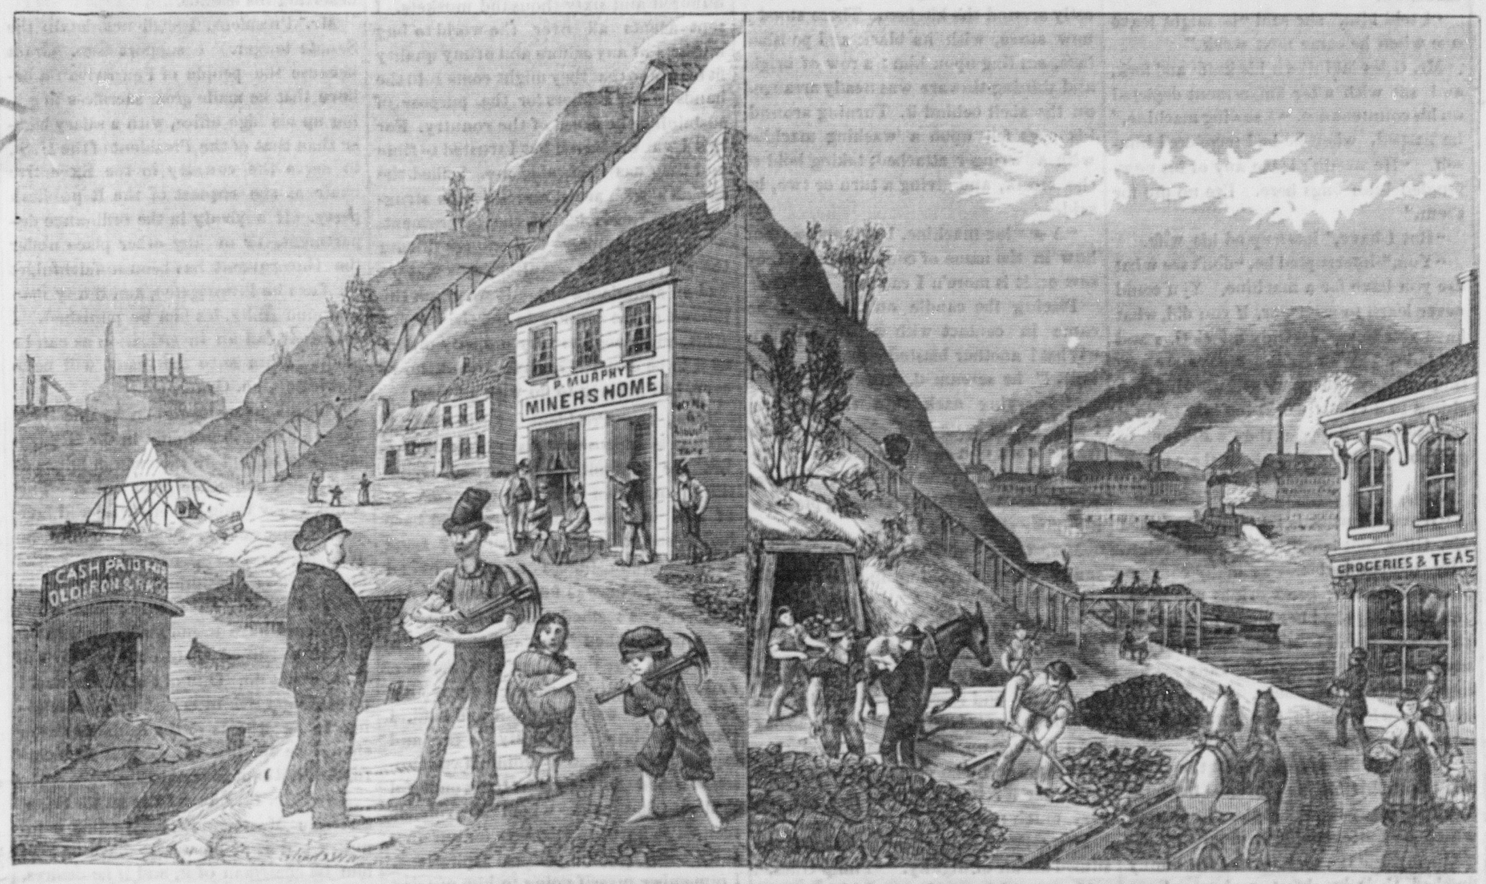
These are facts which any man can testify to who can recall the days of 1856-57, when free trade prostrated us with a storm of poverty.

But look on the other picture. Instead of a whisky shop we see a grocery store—instead of idle, hopeless men we see happy and industrious men. The coal is descending the hill, where hundreds of miners are at work, with happy families in comfortable homes waiting for their return. The miner is happy, for he knows his wife and children are not out picking up sticks and chips, and the wife and children are happy, for they know the husband and father is not hanging around a saloon. A well covered table awaits him, and a well dressed family welcome him. The river is full of life—a boat is smoking and foaming up stream to the mills in the back ground with its tow of coal, where a thousand hardy iron men are earning good wages, which goes to employ farmers, build school houses, railroads, &c. This scene needs few words to teach the lesson intended by it. It is a picture familiar to all. Workingmen, which would you rather do—carry your implements to an old iron dealer, while your wife is picking up sticks to build a fire to boil once more a five cent bone of meet for supper, or see your wife coming home, as she is in the picture, well dressed, with a basket full of as good food as they have to sell. You can have your choice. It is in your power to choose. You will some day be called upon to determine. Free traders and British manufacturers are spending thousands of dollars to fill the country with tracts and literature to deceive the voters of the country. The crisis will come some day, and if you are not strong enough you will sell your implements and live in reality the life of poverty here represented.

Prepare yourself.

The following we clip from an English paper:

"America begins to make a respectable appearance among our customers. The day is near at hand when this (America) will be an important outlet for Cleveland iron. The Western States have increased in power through increased representation in Congress; the result is an addition to the ranks of free traders. It is said that the composition of the Committee of Ways and Means ensures a proposal to reduce the import tariff this session on pig iron. The import duty is at present seven dollars per ton, but a reduction to the extent of two or three dollars per ton is expected in well informed quarters. It remains a matter of surprise that the production of pig iron in the States which at present is estimated at $2,000,000 tons per annum, does not increase at a greater ratio. The country has enormous coal fields in the neighborhood of mountains of iron stone with railways in close proximity, and these could be worked to good profits."



UNDER FREE TRADE. UNDER TARIFF.

THE SALE OF ARMS QUESTION.

In as much as the Senate of the United States has been engaged for some two weeks in the discussion of the so-called Sumner preamble and resolution of investigation, it is no wonder that the question has become so absurd that few people understand the exact grounds of the controversy.

The preamble makes four distinct charges:

First, That there was a discrepancy in the accounts between the reports of the Treasury and the War Departments as to the money received, amounting to nearly two millions of dollars.

Second, That arms were sold in violation of international law, to the French agents.

Third, That new arms were sold in violation of statute laws.

Fourth, That owing to the difference of the money paid France and the money received by the United States, amounting to upwards of a million of dollars, there is reason to suspect that some of our officers have been guilty of bribery and corruption.

That the above is a correct production of the charges can be ascertained by a comparison with the Sumner preamble which is paraphrased for the sake of brevity and perspicuity.

Certain admissions of facts have been made on both sides, and we, therefore, eliminate them from those in controversy. The change of an apparent discrepancy between the accounts of the War and Treasury Departments has been abandoned, because it was discovered that the alleged discrepancy was based upon a misunderstanding of the figures. The Secretary of War, personally, has also been exonerated from all intention to violate law, or to connive at corruption.

The facts set forth in the report of Mr. Dyer, the Chief of Ordinance, are also admitted as follows: That cannon, small arms, and amunition have been sold from time to time under a statute passed at the close of the war, authorizing the War Department to sell old arms, or such as were not suitable for the armies or militia of the United States. That in October, 1870, and subsequently, arms were sold on giving the usual notice and that they were sold at unusually high prices, and to the advantage of the government.

In October a very large number of arms were offered for sale. Squire, the agent of Remington, discovered himself as the agent of France when all the bids were rejected, and other proposals invited. About the 20th of October several hundred thousand muskets were sold; and a German house of New York, believing that it could sell these arms to the Prussian Government, put in a bid for 50,000 muskets. The Prussian Government, having no use for said arms at that time, refused to buy, and the German mercantile house sold said arms to one of the firms that sold those arms to France.

As to the October sales, it is admitted that when a firm discovered itself to be the agents of France its bids were rejected, and that all the bids were opened regularly and that no distinction was made between the German house buying on its own responsibility, but in the interest of Germany, and the other mercantile establishments which would have sold to either party that was ready to give them the largest profits, but which in point of fact sold to the Government of France.

It is not claimed that there is either illegality or corruption apparent or suspected in this sale. The most that can be claimed is that in consideration of certain moral obligations of absolute neutrality, our government might have better sacrificed the difference of price—several hundred thousand dollars—so as to appear perfectly impartial, than to sell arms in time of war, when, in point of fact, that was the only time when old arms were saleable. This question, however, is not one for an investigating committee; nor for subordinate governments to decide. It ought to be decided by law and the sale of arms should be regulated by statute so that no offence even by implication might be given hereafter. It is an unquestioned fact that, when, in January, 1871, the attention of the President was specially called to the subject, he ordered the sales of arms to be suspended.

Sumner and Schurz, however, claim that the sale of forty thousand breech-loading rifles made on or about the 13th of December, 1870, were made in violation of statute and international laws. It will be observed that the entire controversy hinges upon this sale. It is really curious, and one of the most remarkable instances of our times, how a matter so small could create so much controversy—we might almost say excitement. It is in itself a very great tribute to the remarkable ability of Sumner and Schurz in special pleading; and another evidence of their great anxiety to throw discredit upon the Administration.

But their case shall be fairly stated: The arms sold were breach-loading Springfield rifles, made after the model of 1866 They were sold, to a Mr. Richardson, who had not been previously known to the trade; and he is claimed to have been the mere sub-agent of Remington, the authorized agent of France. It is claimed that inasmuch as these arms were new they could not be sold under the statute; that reasonable dilligence was not employed to ascertain whether Richardson was not Remington's agent; and that the surrounding circumstances and the testimony taken in the Courts of France, tend to show that probably corrupt means were used to effect this sale.

It is alleged on the other side that said breech-loading rifles had been made after a discarded model; that owing to the rapid changes and improvements in that description of arms, it was for the interest of the United States to sell these arms at cost, or nearly cost, and replace them with better arms; and that under the statute the question of what are suitable arms for the army or militia would have to be decided by the officers in charge in view of all the circumstances in the case.

Right here we would make the suggestion, that Congress pass a law requiring all doubtful interpretations to be submitted to the Attorney General, whose opinion should be binding in the case. At present the subordinates in the various Departments assume the authority to interpret the laws for themselves; and yet naval and military officers, as well as civillians not regularly brought up in the law, are illy qualified to discharge these duties. It is true, a Department may at its pleasure submit questions of law to the Attorney General; but there opinions have no binding force and may be disregarded. Therefore we have no uniform and authorized interpretation of the laws, and each Department and branch, thereof, uses its own discretion. This is a matter well worthy the consideration of statesmen without regard to party predilections.

In this gun controversy, it is claimed on the other side that the War Department had no reason to suspect Richardson as the agent of Remington, and that there was neither fraud nor corruption in the transaction.

As both parties profess to be willing to have the most searching investigation made and to ascertain the disputed facts the public can only wait patiently for results. Should Sumner and Schurz be correct and fasten corruption upon Dyer or Ingalls or any other officer, we have no doubt the culprit will be dismissed the service and duly prosecuted. The Republican party has no interest in shielding rascals and thieves; and the President, judging him from his past course, will not be slow to move upon their works.

Having now stated the case as we think, fully and fairly, we ask Republicans in all earnestness, is this ground sufficient to abandon their party? Shall they seek relief and reform by voting the Democratic ticket? Would it not be better, even if some gentlemen were to come to the conclusion that Grant's Administration is not the best possible, or even the most desirable, to bear with it, in obedience to the wishes of the majority, for another four years, than to destroy the party and hand the Government over to rebel influences? Yet, it gives us great pain to say it, the great talents of Carl Schurz, and this sale of arms case, are used, not so much to correct this specific abuse as to overthrow the Republican party in case Grant is renominated

Senator Schurz seems to believe that when a noble ship with its precious human freight becomes infested with rats, the proper remedy is, not to trap the rats, but to scuttle and sink the ship.—When, recently, he scattered as he thought, destruction and death within the Republican ranks, and earned the applause of every Ku-Klux, and ex-Rebel in the land; overflowing with joy and personal triumph, he reminded us of the historic German fiddler, who having been troubled with bed-bugs, set his house on fire, and as the conflagration spread, fiddled away:

"If this not good for bed-bugs is
I do not know what better is."

SIGNIFICANT.

The Examiner and Herald contains the following, as showing the purity of Gen. Hartranft's character and the great esteem in which he is held by those who know him best. "The committee of the House of Representatives on Elections, last week reported a bill authorizing Governor Geary to appoint an Auditor General to fill the interim between the expiration of the legal term of the present incumbent, Gen Hartranft, and the election of a new officer, which was authorized by the same bill to take place next fall. When these slanders against Gen. Hartranft appeared in the New York Tribune, the House immediately amended the bill, and extended the term of Gen. Hartranft until a successor shall be duly elected. The bill thus amended was passed unanimously—not a single Democratic or Republican voting against it—which is certainly significant of the present temper of the House towards officials. The same bill will also pass the Senate."

—Rev. Mr. Miller, a Presbyterian clergyman, of Springfield Long Island, has offered a new sensation for the churches. He denounces the funeral services as pernicious and unscriptural, and says that funeral discourses are often a mass of lies, and that dead men's memories were lauded to heaven when their spirits were in the other place.

—Another broken rail has caused a baggage, mail, smoking, and passenger car to be precipitated down an embankment. This time the disaster occurred near Springfield, Ohio. No one was killed, but several were injured. The most damage results from the destruction of the mail-car by fire, all the letters being consumed.

—The people of the oil regions are moving energetically for a railway from Erie, by way of Titusville, into the oil regions, as a competing railroad, connecting with water communication to New York and Europe.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

A WOMAN'S POEM.

You say you love me, and you lay
Your hand and fortune at my feet;
I thank you sir, with all my heart,
For love is sweet.

It is but little to you men,
To whom the doors of Life stand wide;
But much, how much to Woman! She
Has naught beside.

You make the worlds wherein you move;
You rule your tastes, or coarse, or fine;
Dine, hunt or fish, or waste your gold
At dice or wine.

Our world alas! you make that, too!)
Is narrower—shut in four blank walls;
Know you or care, what link is there?—
What shadow falls?

We read the last new novel out,
And live in dream-land till it ends;
We write romantic school-girl notes,
That bore our friends.

We learn to trill Italian songs,
And thrum for hours the fretured keys;
We think it pleases you, and we
But live to please.

We feed our birds, we tend our flowers,
(Poor indoor things of sickly bloom,)
Or play the housewife in our gloves,
And dust the room.

But some of us have hearts and minds—
So much the worse for us and you!
For grant we seek a better life,
What can we do?

We cannot build and sail your ships,
Or drive your engines, we are weak,
And ignorant of the tricks of trade;
To think and speak,

Or write some earnest, stammering words,
Alone is ours, and that you hate;
So, forced within ourselves again,
We sigh and wait.

Ah! who can tell the bitter hours,
The dreary days that women spend?
Their thoughts unshared, their lives unknown,
Without a friend!

Without a friend? And what is he
Who, like a shadow, day and night
Follows the woman he prefers—
Lives in her sight?

Her lover—he, a gallant man,
Devoted to her every whim—
He vows to die for her, so she
Must live for him!

We should be very grateful, sir,
That, when you've nothing else to do,
You waste your idle hours on us—
So kind of you!

Profuse in studied compliments,
Your manners, like your clothes, are fine;
Though both at times are somewhat strong
Of smoke and wine!

What can we hope to know of you?
Or you of us? We act our parts;
We love in jest; it is the play
Of hands, not hearts!

You grant my bitter words are true
Of others, not of you and me;
Your love is steady as a star—
But we shall see.

You say you love me. Have you thought
How much those little words contain?
Alas! a world of happiness,
And words of pain!

You know, or should, your nature—know
It needs and passions. Can I be
What you desire me? Do you find
Your all in me?

You do! But have you thought that I
May have my ways and fancies, too?
You love me? Well, but have you thought
If I love you?

But think again. You know me not;
I, too, may be a butterfly,
A costly parlor doll on show
For you to buy.

You trust me wholly! One word more:
You see me young; they call me fair;
I think I have a pleasant face,
And pretty hair?

But by and by my face will fade;—
It must with time, it may with care;
What say you to a wrinkled wife,
With thin, gray hair?

You care not, you; in youth or age
Your heart is mine while it endures;
Is't so? Then, Arthur, here's my hand—
My heart is yours.

What Mrs. Giles Did.

BY MRS. S. A. UNDERWOOD.

Mrs. Giles stood in the front yard, hanging up her Monday's wash; the last piece had found its place upon the line.

"Done at last," said Mrs. Giles, speaking to herself, a habit which she indulged, "Now, if dinner was out of the way, I might find time to finish Leonard's suit, this afternoon; I've had it around so long. If I only had a sewing machine, how much I could accomplish," and picking up her basket she went into the house The prospect within was not very cheering, the washtubs to clear away, and dinner to place on the table. Just as she had begun to lay the table, Mr. Giles appeared at the door and said:

"Put on an extra plate; that man will take dinner with us."

Dinner was soon ready and as soon despatched, for ceremony was one of the unknown things in the Giles family. Mr. Giles and the stranger retired to the sitting room, to discuss the merits of a new reaper and mower, while Mrs. Giles remained and cleared away the dinner table. When she had finished and made herself ready for the afternoon, she went into the sitting room. The stranger was about taking his leave. Mr. Giles was saying:

"If you have anything new and better; anything that will make work easier, and do more of it, I am your man! I am in favor of all machinery that will lighten work for men," emphasizing the word men. "Why, bless you, just look around my farm, It's run mostly by machinery."

"Profitable? certainly," replied he to an interogation from the stranger.—"More than pays expenses. Money in the bank," he added, never omitting an occassion of mentioning a small deposit he had in the city bank. The stranger was gone at last, and Mrs. Giles sat down, with weary limbs and aching shoulders, to finish a suit of clothes she was making for her oldest son, a lad of fifteen. Slowly and wearily the needle went in and out; stitch after stitch was taken, but to little purpose; it did seem as if she never would come to the last. But if stitches progressed s'owly, her thoughts flew fast enough. The last words of her husband lingered in her mind, and again and again they recurred to her.

"Yes," said she, at last breaking forth into soliloquy, her usual habit when much disturbed in mind. "Yes, men can have their burdens lightened, but poor women may drudge. Every year Giles has added something new to his farming implements, while I have to plod along with hardly sufficient utensils to cook a decent dinner; an old stove, without a boiler or whole griddle, and cracked door. No wonder I cannot bake a loaf of bread decently Then here I have to sit and stitch for a week on this suit, when two hours on a machine would complete it."

It is needless to record all of Mrs. Giles' thoughts and words, as she sat stitching the hours away. A dim consciousness of her wrongs, and a faint determination to assert her rights, was entering her mind. She had so long given up her opinions, set aside her needs, and fostered the selfishness of husband, that it was hard to break through the meshes of habit which his stern will had woven around her. The afternoon wore away, and Mrs. Giles laid aside the unfinished garment to prepare the evening meal.

The next morning, at breakfast she remarked to her husband that an agent for a sewing machine had called the day previous, and wished her to try one of his machines.

"I told him," she said "he might leave one when he came next week."

Mr. Giles laid down his knife and fork, and sat with utter amazement depicted on his countenance. "A sewing machine," he gasped, when he had recovered himself "He needn't leave any of his new-fangled hum bugs here. I've no use for them."

"But I have," interrupted his wife.

"You," interrupted he, "don't see what use you have for a machine. You could never learn to use it, or, if you did, what have you to sew? Only my clothes and the boys." Women now-a-days are getting mighty independent, wanting machines to do their work; too lazy to do it themselves. Suppose they want time to gad about and gossip about their neighbors."

"Why, Philip——"

"Woman's work is nothing, continued Mr. Giles, not heeding the interruption. "My mother had not as many conveniences for doing her work as you have, yet she always had her meals regular, and well cooked, and that is more than I can say for you. No, I don't want any sewing machine about the house. God made as good a sewing machine as I want, when he made woman."

With this ultimatum, he left the table, and taking his hat, he mounted his horse and rode away to look at the new reaper, which he contemplated buying.

One by one the members of the family finished their breakfast, and passed out leaving Mrs. Giles alone. She sat with her head resting upon her hand; her thoughts wandered back to the days when in the freshness of her youth she gave her heart's deepest and best affections to Philip Giles. Blinded by her great love for him, she saw not the extreme selfishness nor coarseness of his nature. She implicitly believed all his promises, and heeded not the warning of her friends.

It seemed a long time since then, so many shadows had darkened her pathway darker yet seemed to grow life's rugged journey. She saw her six sons growing up around her, amidst rough and evil influences, without the ability wholly to counteract them. Mrs. Giles remained a long time bowed over that breakfast table, praying with a sense of helplessness and a feeling of need, such as she had never before experienced. A loud rap at the door startled her. On opening it she found Mr. Harris had called to pay off a note which had long been due; a note Mr. Giles had often declared he should never be able to collect. "The poor wretch," he mused, "will never be able to save enough to pay his honest debts while his wife spends all his earnings on such foolish things as washing machines."

Mrs. Giles informed Mr. Harris of her husband's absence, but said she would attend to the business. When all was satisfactorily settled, and Mr. Harris had gone, Mrs. Giles sat for some time looking at the roll of money in her hand. At length, a new thought came into her mind Carefully placing the bills in her pocket, she went into the kitchen and hurriedly finished her morning's work, and then, dressing herself, she walked down to the station, which was but a quarter of a mile distant. She was just in time for the morning train, for the city, ten miles away.

It was nearly 4 o'clock in the afternoon when she returned home. Mr. Giles was still absent; Leonard, the eldest son, stood in the yard with the team.

"Heigho, mother," said he, "I wys just going to look for you. I thought it was too bad for you always to walk."

"Well, my son," she replied, "you would not have found me; I've been to the city."

"The city! gee-whittaker!" and Leonard gave a prolonged whistle.

"Yes," said Mrs. Giles getting into the wagon, "and now I wish you to go to the station with me, and bring home my purchases."

Leonard mounted beside her, saying: "And so the old man did shell out for once in his life and give you a little money, did he?"

Mrs. Giles reproved Leonard for speaking thus of his father, but he continued: "Well, I can't help it; I think it a mean shame. He never gives you a cent to spend, but sends you to the store at the corner, with the same old order: 'Please let the bearer have what she needs.' I'd make it convenient to need a great many things, if I were you."

It was late when Mr. Giles returned. He hastily dismounted and gave his horse to one of the boys. Entering the house, he called for his supper in no gentle tones. Fortunately supper was just ready. Having satisfied his ravenous appetite, he arose from the table, saying:

"Come, boys, it's time you were in bed; I'll want you by daybreak in the morning," and setting the example he went to bed and was soon sound asleep. About 11 o'clock, Mrs. Giles, having finished her work and made preparation for an early breakfast, retired to rest. Being very much fatigued by the day's excitement, she soon slept heavily.

After the first nap, Mr. Giles was restless and uneasy; he tossed and turned from side to side, but no more sleep for him. He concluded to get up. Having dressed himself, he took the candle and proceeded to the kitchen. The slender tallow dip threw a lurid light around the room. Things seemed to have strangely changed since morning. Raising the light above his head, he gazed long and earnestly around the kitchen. There stood a new stove, with its black and polished face, smiling upon him; a row of bright and shining tinware was neatly arranged on the shelf behind it. Turning around, his eyes fell upon a washing machine with a wringer attached; taking hold of the crank, and giving a turn or two, he said—

"A sewing machine, by thunder; but how in the name of common sense they sew on it is more'n I can tell.

Placing the candle on the table, he came in contact with a patent churn. "What! another blasted concern! Polly, Polly!" he screamed, seizing the candle and hurrying back into the sleeping room. In his haste his foot caught in the frame work of a sewing machine and he fell full length in the middle of the floor while the candle found a resting place on the other side of the room.

Mrs. Giles suddenly aroused from a sound sleep, started up in a bewildered way, saying:

"What is it, Philip? What's the matter?"

"Matter enough," growled he, picking himself up, and rescuing the candle from its proximity to the bedclothes—"who has been filling up the house with all that trumpery, and who do you think is going to pay for it? If you think I am, you are very much mistaken!"

Mrs. Giles sprang from the bed and assumed an air of dignity. "Philip Giles," said she, "I have always faithfully endeavored to do my duty as a wife and mother. I have patiently borne my privations, thinking it necessary to husband our means, while you have used money without stint, to purchase machinery to lighten your work. Now I have resolved upon a change. What modern improvements there are to facilitate woman's work, I intend to have. Nay, do not interrupt me," she continued, as Mr. Giles made an effort to speak. "Those things are paid for, with the money dear old grandfather left me by his will. You loaned it to Mr. Harris, doing me neither the honor nor justice to have the notes drawn in my name. Yesterday he paid in. I went to the city and made these purchases; they cost less than the mower you have just bought. The rest of the money I placed in the savings bank."

"In your name, I suppose?" said Mr. Giles.

"Yes, in my name," continued Mrs. Giles, "that I might have the use of it when I wished. This farm was purchased with a part of that legacy, and hereafter I intend to see that my rights are respected, and my legal claims rightly adjusted."

And so she did.—Western Rural.

A QUESTION.—A young man recently wrote to a paper, asking whether it would be advisable for him to marry a "a young and tender angel, who had never done her own washing or dressmaking." In reply, the editor advised him to do so by all means, and mentioned a similar case in his own experience, where the bride had never done her own washing; but after marriage she became so fond of the wash-tub, as not only to work for her own family, but for several families among her acquaintances.

PETER CARTWRIGHT, the Rev. Pioneer Methodist, used to be annoyed by a noisy but not over pious sister, who would go off on a high key every opportunity she got. At an animated class meeting one day the surcharged sister broke out with: "if I had one more feather in the wing of my faith I could fly away and be with the Savior.' 'Stick in the feather, O Lord! and let her go, 'fervently responded Brother Cartwright.

A NEGRO was relating her experiences to a gaping congregation of color, and among other things she said she had been in heaven. One of the ladies asked her—"Sister, did you see any blacks in heaven?" 'Oh get out! You s'pose I go in the kitchen when I was dar?'

A RELIGIOUS journal jokes in the following outrageous style: "A girl may as well hang up her fiddle when she loses her bean."

REMARKS OF HON. SIMON CAMERON.

DELIVERED IN THE SENATE, FEBRUARY 29, ON THE SUMNER RESOLUTION TO INVESTIGATE THE ALLEGED SALES OF ARMS TO AGENTS OF THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Cameron. Mr. President, I am in favor of the fullest investigation of this subject, and I am opposed to making any alteration in the resolution offered by the Senator from Massachusetts, because I believe the Administration will derive benefit from the fullest investigation. I was myself some years ago the subject of very unjust examination and investigation by a committee, at the head of which was a gentleman from Massachusetts. When our great struggle for existence began, when armed treason assailed the flag of the Union, I felt that the war which thus began would be a serious and prolonged contest; that it would require large expenditures on the part of this Government; and I believed that it would require an immense amount of arms and ammunition; that it would require money and fortitude and courage and resolution to go through with it; but I believed from the beginning that God was on our side, and that in the end we should surely win.

When I came into charge of the Department of War I found only about one hundred and sixty thousand muskets. I sent agents all over the world to buy muskets of any calibre and of any quality fit for use so that they might come into the hands of our soldiers for the purpose of sustaining the cause of the country. For this I was censured; but I trusted to time and time has vindicated me. I filled the arsenals with arms; and after the struggle of the rebels against the government, while the country had enough during the war, it turned out afterwards that we had an abundance left. It was then the interest of the country to sell the surplus arms, and Congress very properly ordered it to be done. General Grant, however, had nothing to do with all this.

Now, the President of the United States is supposed to have done wrong. Let me just put this proposition before the country; can any man who came out of this war as General Grant did have had reason to do anything wrong? Look at the circumstances that surrounded him. Until he was found, I am sorry to say, our was seemed to be a failure. In 1863 he finished the campaign on the Mississippi by the taking of Vicksburg, and subsequently he closed the war only through his own judgment and skill. I remember how frequently here, and especially the Senator from Massachusetts talked to me about the wonderful skill of that man whom Providence seemed to have brought here for our own good. He had no political aspirations. I remember myself going to him one day and saying, "The country will make you President." He said to me: "I would not be President; I have now the highest honor which any man has ever reached; I am commander of the Army of the United States, with a rank above that of Gen. Washington; and shall I give that up and take an office which cannot last more than eight years, and most likely will not last more than four?"

But, sir, he took the Presidency at the earnest solicitation of gentlemen in this body and all over the country. He has never been my special friend. I do not think he has ever made three appointments at my request, and I have asked him to make at least three hundred. I have no idea that because a gentleman comes into the Senate he is bound to abandon his old friends and turn his back upon them when they may be applicants for position under the Government. About the only pleasure, and certainly the only profit I have ever had from being in the Senate, was that once in a while I could take up some lonely creature and be instrumental in putting him or her into a place where he or she would be independent of the world for the time being. Why should I not have the privilege of doing that? When I have a notion that somebody ought to have a particular place under the Government in Pennsylvania, I will recommend him or her for that place. One of my friends suggests to me that for making this remark I shall be charged with "hanging on to the skirts of power." Sir, I do not think "power" has ever made me support it improperly.

Now, sir, I want the Senator from Massachusetts to have his committee. I think the strict rules of propriety would deprive him of going on the committee, because I do not believe an accuser can be of the jury, and I do not think any man who brings an indictment against a poor devil is even allowed to be made a grand juror to decide whether he ought to be tried or not. But our rules here are larger; they give more freedom than is allowed in the courts of justice, and therefore I am willing the Senator should be on the committee.

I did not really, Mr. President, intend to say a word on this subject; but having risen, I have said certainly more than I meant to say when I rose. I rose simply to say that I think we ought not to decide this question to-night. The Senator from Indiana this morning gave notice that he hoped we would do so; but my impression is that the longer you talk about this matter the weaker will be the gentlemen who have proposed this investigation, and the stronger will be the Administration in consequence of their opposition.

Why should I prefer General Grant? He has never done me any honor. I have helped him, but he has never helped me. He is President of the United States however, and I believe he has done his duty faithfully. I believe he is as honest a man as there is in the world. I believe he is a very much abler man than his enemies give him credit for. If I live, as I hope God will allow me to live, for ten or twelve years after this, I should not be surprised if I were to find those gentlemen who are now assailing him admitting that they had made a great mistake in it. Some of the gentlemen who are now opposing Grant opposed Lincoln; but after a while they began to see that Lincoln was a very wise man. He, it was said, had no policy; but if a Senator said an unkind word of him, he was very likely to invite him to his house and ask him to take tea with him the same night after the Senator had opposed him.—Grant, however, has a good deal of my own spirit. If a man smites him in the face, he smites back, and that I hold to be the better policy. No public man in my belief ever made anything by succumbing to his enemies, and I do not believe any man in the world ever has made or ever will make anything by deserting his friends.

Mr. President, I shall not detain the Senate longer. I support Gen. Grant because the people of Pennsylvania believe that he made great sacrifices in giving up his high office, with a salary higher than that of the President of the U. S., to serve the country in the Executive chair at the request of the Republican party. If anybody in the ordinance department, or in any other place under the Government has been unfaithful, let the facts be investigated, and if any man be found guilty, let him be punished. I desire as full an investigation as can be made. I am sure the result will be to vindicate Gen. Grant.

The allegation seems to be that there are some abuses not only in the Departments here, but in the custom house at New York and other great cities. This is not a new thing. Every wise and honest administrator of the government, from Washington down, has always found more or less corruption; seems to be an incident of human nature; but when Presidents have found guilty men in office they turned them out; and so will Gen. Grant do. One of the things that I most disapprove of is that men pretending to be friends of the Administration should be the first to charge it with corruption without investigation.

Now, Mr. President, I say let the Senator from Massachusetts have this committee just as he pleases to have it; let him be chairman of it, and if he desires, I will vote to give him all his own friends on the committee. He may fill it, if he pleases, with enemies of Gen. Grant entirely. I will agree to put on the committee any one that he may name, because I have great confidence justice and intelligence of the Senator from Massachusetts. I would agree to let the Senator from Massachusetts select his own committee.

THE Philadelphia Press pronounces the evidence in the McClure-Gray case "startling." Colonel McClure appears to be proving himself rapidly into his competitor's seat. Of the perpetration of gross frauds at the recent special election no doubt longer exists. Thus far the evidence has been given by McClure's witnesses. Gray has not yet disclosed his "case." The drift of the evidence is that McClure's votes were not counted. How many times—if more than once—Gray's votes were counted, don't appear yet. Nor has any evidence been taken to show what "shenanegan"—if any—McClure's side resorted to. They say they hadn't any chance, that if they had been so disposed the polls were exclusively in the hands of the Gray party Pittsburg Commercial.

A California paper tells of a dance which took place recently in a wine tank. It says: A large party of ladies and gentleman, invited to the dedicatory ceremony of dancing in one of the largest vats in the United States, were in attendance and participated in the hospitality of one of the most enterprising vinters in California. The monster tank was lit up; the musicians announced, 'take your partners for a quadrille,' and dancing commenced after the old Bavarian style. While one set danced, there was plenty of room for twenty spectators and the musicians." The vats have a capacity of 50,000 gallons.

—It is stated that one firm in the iron business at Philadelphia furnishes the means of livelihood to over twelve thousand persons when business is brisk, and the native iron trade is in good condition. Labor stimulated and furnished with material to go upon, outside the works, amount to over thirty thousand more.

—Messrs. Graff, Bennett & Co., are erecting in a new mill recently added to their mammoth works at Bennet's station, on the West Pennsylvania Railroad, five Dank's rotary puddling furnaces, two muck trains, and one merchant train.

Doughnuts.

A Scene in the Pennsylvania Legislature—Horace Greeley on the Philosophy of Doughnuts—The Culture of Pretzels—What He Knows about Snits and Sots.

We copy the following recent proceedings in the Pennsylvania Senate from the Legislative Record:

Mr. Mumma sent to the clerk's desk a letter signed "Horace Greeley," which he desired the clerk to read.

Mr. Billingfelt. Does that relate to farming?

Mr. Mumma. No, sir, it relates to culinary matters. [Laughter.]

The clerk read the letter, as follows:

TRIBUNE OFFICE, Jan. 27, 1872.

MR. J. T. V., Reading, Pa.:

My Dear Sir: Your favor of the 25th inst., is just received in reference to the admission of colored children into the public schools of your city, and containing a copy of your remarks to Washington, as requested, and think you need have no fears of removal. I am forming no opinion just now on the question, but think Mr. Sumner's bill will settle the whole matter. A great deal of my time the past season has been occupied in preparing a new and enlarged edition of "What I Know About Farming," a most excellent and serviceable book, which I think you ought to have. (I will send you a copy, postage prepaid, on receipt of price, $1 50.) As the season is advanced, and has kept me in the house a great deal, I have been trying to better the condition of our people by endeavoring to make improvements in cooking.

For some years I have found that doughnuts lie too heavy on my stomach, which my physicians attribute to the fat in which they are fried. They tell me that a doughnut contains about eight times as much fat as is consistent with a doughnut. To overcome this difficulty, I have gone to considerable philosophical research. By using only one eighth of the usual amount of fat for frying them, Mrs. Greeley assured me the doughnuts would burn. By using eight times as much flour, I would have just eight times as many doughnuts as I wanted. I therefore determined to use eight times the usual quantity of sots. Mrs. G. mixed up the batter in the bread bowl, and having made most exact proportions, I put in one pint of sots. The next morning on entering the kitchen, we found that batch of doughnuts had risen about ninety degrees above our highest expectations, and the tide was still rising. Mrs. G. heated the lard while I tried to stir down the batter, but all to no use. I poured in some fat, but it only spritzed and crackled, and I was mortified to find my experiment a failure, as the doughnut is worse than Carl Schurz in a caucus.

But I was not dismayed. Education has done much for the human mind, and there is no reason in philosophy why it should not do as much for doughnuts. To preserve the tone of the doughnut without the fat, I substituted alcohol for lard, but the consequence was that Mrs. G. and myself narrowly escaped with our lives. We only saved three doughnuts out of the batch, two of which we eat and sent the third to Mr. Beecher. They were truly delicious, but they are too high priced and the manufacture is attended with too much risk for this brand ever to become a popular article of diet. Those we made cost about seventy-three cents apiece.

Let me hear what your colored citizens are going to do with the school board.

I hear that in your vicinity you raise a small fruit called pretzels, which are said to be good when cooked. Please send me a few seed, and I will set them out in the spring. Yours, truly,

HORACE GREELEY.

P. S.—When passing through Allentown lately, a boy came through the cars with cakes, and a peculiar fruit called snits. I bought a few and set them out but I fear our climate is too severe for them. If you will be kind enough to send me a few healthy vines, I would like to give them another trial in my green house. H. G.

On motion of Mr. Dill, the committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

THE AMERICAN WASHER?

PRICE $5.50

THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY, TIME, AND DRUDGERY.

The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.

In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.

It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a Quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambric Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the LITTLE GEM! It can be fastened to any tub and taken of at will.

No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once becomes the fast friends of the machine.

We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prospectus and loud sounding advertisements.

It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.

$5.50.

All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial. We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

R. B. BARGER.....PROPRIETOR

W. W. BROWN,.....EDITOR

Terms: $2.00 Per Annum in Advance.

Wednesday Morning, March 13th, 1872.

BELLEFONTE, PA.

FOR GOVERNOR,

GEN. JOHN F. HARTRANFT,

Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention.

☞ A complete file of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN may always be found at the offices of GEO. P. ROWELL & CO., Advertising Agents, 40 and 41 Park Row, New York, who are authorized to represent us in that city.

☞ HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF PENNSYLVANIA.
PHILADELPHIA, Feb, 5, 1872.

In pursuance of the resolution of the REPUBLICAN STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE adopted at Harrisburg Jan. 18 1872, a REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION, composed of Delegates from each Senatorial and Representative District, in the number to which such District is entitled in the Legislature, will meet in the Hall of the House of Representatives at Harrisburg, at 12 o'clock, noon, on Wednesday, the 10th day of April, A. D. 1872, to nominate candidates for Governor, Judge of the Supreme Court, Auditor General (should the Legislature provide for the choice of one by the people), and an Electoral Ticket; and also to elect Senatorial and Representative Delegates to represent this State in the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, to be held at Philadelphia June 5, 1872.

AMERICAN INDUSTRIES & "REVENUE REFORMERS."

NO. I.

If among the objects attempted to be achieved by the Republican Administration, is that of protection and encouragement to American Industries, it will not be necessary to offer any apology for directing attention to the movements of those who have constituted themselves "Revenue Reformers," and are laboring to organize an opposition in Congress strong enough to defeat the protective policy of the Government.

Revenue Reform, in the legitimate sense of the term, has been, and is now among the first and most absorbing studies of our leading statesmen. In Congress and among the people concord and energy have guided the counsels and stimulated the efforts of the Republican party in ameliorating the burdens of our taxpayers. And the fact that taxes have already been removed from not less than ten thousand different articles of manufacture, wear, use and consumption, affords ample proof of the success of Congressional labor in this respect. Our internal revenue taxes have been reduced from $310,906 984, in 1866, to $144,011,176, in 1871; and the work of reduction still goes on. What has already been accomplished may safely be accepted as an earnest of what will be done in the future.

But there is, in every community, a class of unreasonable individuals who are not satisfied, and never will be.—They remind us of the Vermont farmer who was never contented with the quality of his horses, oxen, and cattle. He was constantly swapping, bartering and exchanging with his neighbors. After one of his trades, in which he became the owner of a pair of splendid oxen, one of his neighbors, on meeting him, inquired how he liked his last trade. "Well, neighbor," he replied, "I've got the best pair of oxen ever God Almighty made; but they don't just suit me; I think I can do better yet." So we live under the best, and probably the best managed Government it ever fell to the lot of man to enjoy, yet there are those who are not pleased, and voluntarily put themselves in opposition to Congress and the Administration, and employ what influences they possess, or may be able to control, in an effort to defeat legitimate legislation.

One of the leading minds in the Revenue Reform movement is David A Wells, ex-special Commissioner of Revenue. Mr. Wells is a scholarly gentleman, and to him the American public are indebted for some very valuable statistical reports on our industries. It is true that the immense labor involved in the preparation of these reports was all done by the clerical force in the Statistical Bureau of the United States Treasury, under the superintendence of Dr. Young, and at the expense of the government. But they were published under the auspices of Mr. Wells, and are accompanied with his own deductions and personal views, wherein he has given some very good suggestions, mixed up, under semi-official authority, with some of the most unsound theories and illogical deductions that have ever been presented to the criticism of an intelligent public. He was removed from his official position by abolishing the office. But he is still at work, industriously pressing his theories upon the public mind. He has recently lectured in the principal cities of the West. In the North American Review for July last, he published a fifty page article, enforcing his Revenue Reform views, and charging the President, Secretary Boutwell and Congress with incapacity. One of his principal aids is Edward Atkinson of Massachusetts, who has a twenty page paper in the October number of Atlantic Monthly, in which he admits that the objects of the Revenue Reformers and Free Traders are identical or essentially the same.

Mr. Wells attended the Revenue Reform and Free Trade dinner, given by the New York Free Trade League, at Delmonica's in New York, last autumn, and in reply to a regular toast in favor of Free Trade, Mr. Wells made the best Free Trade speech of the evening. No injustice is done, therefore, either to the Revenue Reformers or Free Traders in recognizing them as one and the same in their theories and teachings. Mr. Wells' last Report, made when acting as special Commissioner of Revenue, was published and circulated as a Campaign document by the Free Trade League of New York, and his speeches and magazine and newspaper articles are regularly transferred to the publications of the League. In short, the Revenue Reformers and Free Traders are working hand-in-hand together, and all under the auspices of British agents and British aid, and the feeble and fast failing influences of the fossilated remains of the Democratic party.

These are the materials mainly of which the opposition to the Republican policy of Protection is composed. Admitting that their demands should be conceded, what would be the effect upon Industries?

In answering this enquiry, prescribed limits will necessarily confine the examination to a few branches of American Industry. We select those of iron, steel, salt, wool, silk and wines, as affording opportunity for a fair illustration of the general bearing of the Revenue Reform and Free Trade policy upon the development of our country

I. PIG IRON.

The demand of the opponents of Protection is that pig iron shall be placed on the free list. Mr. Atkinson in his letter in the Atlantic Monthly for October, 1871, quotes "pig iron and raw steel" among the articles to be exempted from duty. The duty on pig iron is now $7 per ton, and that is less than it has been, except for three or four years, during the last half century. During a part of that time, at different periods, the duty was up to $9, $10 and for some years to $13,50 per ton The demand of Mr. Atkinson to throw off the duty and adopt the Revenue Reform policy, is accompanied with the assertion that "the tariff question must be settled upon principles of justice, and not upon the protective theory," and this intimation is backed up with the warning that, "if the advocates of a high tariff shall fail to mark the hand writing upon the wall, and shall persist in their attempt to maintain the present oppressive system, or anything approaching it, they will lose the opportunity now offered them, and will then be entitled to no further consideration or forbearance." This is a good deal in the style of the highwayman under the choice of "your money or your life," only that the Revenue Reformers' demand involves both; for the removal of the duties is a fatal blow at the industrial life of the nation. How would our pig iron industry fare without protection? Its cost is made up mainly of labor. England pays her miners, and furnace men, and laborers, not quite one-half that is paid for similar work in this country. There too, money to initiate and sustain industrial organizations can be obtained on an average of 4 per cent. per annum. Here it is worth 8 and 10 per cent. With interest on capital and cost of labor at half in England that it is here, that country could, with the duty removed, glut our markets with pig-iron, and close every furnace in the country. The duty of $7 per ton is our only protection against this result. We have more coal and iron ore than any other country in the world; but we pay our workmen fair wages for their labor in developing these treasures, while England robs her workingmen of half their dues. There, women and children are compelled to labor with the husband in the mines and foundries—his earnings being insufficient to procure the absolute necessaries of life; here, the wife presides over her family, and the children are at school or college. No, Mr. Atkinson, we cannot surrender, without a manly struggle to retain this important industry.

Our annual product of pig iron is, by careful estimate, about 2,000,000 tons, worth, at the furnace, $60,000,000.—England sent us pig iron during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1870, to the value of 2½ million dollars, and during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1871, the supply from that country was increased to over 3 million dollars. Here is fair competition, and England is to-day sending us more pig iron and rails than she is shipping to all the world besides. But remove the $7 per ton duty from pig iron, and she will have our whole trade in that article. Then the production of iron will become one of the lost industries of our country.

II. BAR IRON.

The annual product of our rolling mills was returned in 1869, at 1,200,000 tons. Its value to-day, at the mills, will average $73 per ton. Total value $87,600,000. In the primary preparation of the ore and fuel, and the manufacture of bar iron, the following is an estimate of the number of hands employed, as returned by the Secretary of the "Iron and Steel Association," to the Statistical Bureau at Washington, for the year 1869:

Men employed at blast furnace...	12,500
" In preparation of ore & fuel	42,000
" At forges and bloomeries....	2,500
" In rolling mills.....	58,000
Total.....	115,000

One hundred and fifteen thousand workmen upon whom, at least, as many more are depending for subsistence.

The duty on bar iron, according to size and style, varies from 1 cent to 1½ cents per lb., and under this tariff England is supplying us annually with bar iron to the value of 3 million dollars.—That gives her a fair share, and keep up a healthy competition. But free traders claim that bar iron should have no protection; and if it cannot be made without protection, they would let England make it for us. Shall we concede this demand? Compliance means the closing of our rolling mills and the transfer of this important industry to the other side of the Atlantic.

THE GREAT WANT OF PHILADELPHIA.

The Harrisburg correspondent of the Beaver Radical, who signs himself "K." makes some remarks in regard to the character standing and ability of the Republican newspapers of Philadelphia which we fully endorse, and which we believe the country press generally will endorse as containing more "truth than poetry". Read and judge for yourselves.

The great want in Philadelphia now is a real live Republican newspaper. There is not a single reliable Republican paper in the city, except it may be the North American, but it is more of a business man's paper, and has so limited a circulation as to have little influence. The Press is a weak, wishy-washy paper, without character, ability or stability in its management. During the canvass in the Fourth District, it was one day for McClure, and the next day for Gray, just as regularly as the days came and went. Forney wants to be United States Senator, and he was trying to be on both sides of the fence, to get the votes of both. Gray's friends finally became so outraged that he was driven over to McClure, and remains there only because it is his only chance to get a vote. The Bulletin is a good paper, but independent, and sore at the Republicans on account of the Building Commission bill. The Telegraph and Inquirer have no politics, and support candidates just according to what they believe will most advance their own interests. There is no large city in the Union with a press so feeble, so little respected or feared as Philadelphia. There is not a good county paper in the State that does not give evidence of more influence than any of the Philadelphia papers, excepting the North American, Ledger and Bulletin; and they are not political papers. All the rest are without character and consequently without influence. The Pittsburgh Commercial, by far a better newspaper than any published in the great city of Philadelphia, with the Pittsburgh Gazette, exercises more influence, and are edited with far more ability than all of the so-called Republican papers of the Quaker City. It is high time some one would start a live, vigorous Republican paper there that would be creditable to the party.

GEN. CAMERON'S SPEECH.

We publish on our seventh page, a terse and able speech delivered in the U. S. Senate on the Sumner-Arms-Selling Resolution, by Gen. Cameron. The State Journal in speaking of this speech says:

"General Cameron's course on the proposition to appoint a committee to investigate the arms selling business took the enemies of the administration by surprise. It was thought the sturdy old Pennsylvanian would oppose all efforts to investigate, and thus defeat Sumner and Schurz in their mean machinations, so that when he openly declared in favor of drawing a committee, and even went so far as to propose to allow Sumner to name the Senators to form it, the malcontents scarcely knew how to reply—they were met in a style which at once spoiled their calculations to make capital for themselves, while the confidence thus expressed in the integrity of the administration was the evidence of its purity and ability to pass through all manner of investigation. Senator Cameron's bold challenge was far more effective than a long argument, because it was the indication that the friends of the administration knew where they stood.

VERY GOOD.—It is very sad to think, says the St. Louis Democrat, that Mr. Sumner's wounds of sixteen years ago have come so suddenly upon him again as to demand surcease from toil, and compel his declination of service upon a committee organized upon his own motion. He pleads for rest and the reluctant Senate yields. It was in the nature of things that the fierce vigor of abuse in which he has recently indulged should tell upon a constitution not the stoutest. And now his physicians come in to warn him that he needs repose. "Madam," said a doctor to a hypochondriacal patient, "you are not very ill, but you need rest." "Yes, doctor, I assure you I am sick; look at my tongue." "Very true," said the doctor, after a glance, "that needs rest very much, indeed."

—Revenge is sweet. A widow won $90,000 from a German gambler at Baden-Baden, and a French General, whose hatred of Germany is undying, married the avenger of his country and the 90,000.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—The Methodists are said to be building more churches in Pennsylvania than any other denomination.

—The first organ in America was imported for King's Chapel, Boston, in 1714, and was regarded by the Puritan residents as an "offensive novelty."

—The newest style of ornaments for the hair is gilt and silver stars, or anchors in colored velvet, or gilt leaves or sprays of wheat fastened on one side of the front braid.

—Oil City, March 8.—At the oil men's mass meeting to-day the report of the general committee was unanimously adopted. An organization will be effected as soon as possible.

—A man looking for a site for a paper-mill has found one in an Iowa town where, he says, there are more rags in proportion to the population than in any other place he ever saw.

—The election of postmasters by the people is being agitated in Congress, and although the proposition has a number of earnest advocates, it does not seem to be as popular as it might be.

—Dr. Huston, the Baltimore minister, against whom serious charges were some time since prefered, has arrived at Warrenton, Va., to answer before the conference now in session at that place.

—The Morrisdale miners have resumed work, a compromise having been effected by which the weight of coal by the railroad company's weigher, at the Tyrone scales, is to decide the quantity mined.

—Henry Dorn, of Chambersburg, was arrested recently by a United States detective, on a charge of forging an endorsement on a pension check. He was taken to Muncy, Lycoming county, for trial.

—At many points on the river the ice is believed to have been strong enough this winter to have held up a train of well-filled passenger cars. The late weather has doubtless reduced its strength materially.

—Jackson county, Iowa, has two Republican newspapers, two Democratic; two citizens in the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, two in the Reform School, two in the Penitentiary and two in the House of Representatives.

—Milton people are exercised over the ice that has gorged in the river above that place. It is feared that in case of a sudden brake-up a dam will be formed, causing the water to overflow the banks and flood the town.

—In Ohio a petition remonstrating against the repeal of the Temperance law of 1870 was signed by four hundred and ninety-two convicts, who, by their own admission, were brought to the penitentiary through the use of intoxicating liquors.

—The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune and Springfield Republican—not liable to be charged with friendship for the President—pronounce the French arms debate a failure, and resulting in the strengthening of the Administration.

—A Miss Ferguson sued one Richard McCue in the Wilkesbarre Courts for slander. A few days since the jury awarded damages to the fair complainant in the sum of $2,333. On the first verdict the defendent asked for a new trial. He got it and $633 along with it.

—It would be wise in tavern and saloon keepers to observe the laws in regard to selling liquor on Sunday just now, as we are informed that several committees, of temperance societies are going round taking notes for the purpose of objecting to the renewal of their licenses.

—Richmond, Va., March 6.—Alexander Mosely, editor of the Whig, and James C. Southall, editor of the Enquirer, were arrested this morning to prevent an anticipated hostile meeting. They were both placed under bonds of one thousand dollars to keep the peace.

—A Paris banker lately became a lunatic. He imagined himself a magnet. A few days ago, while in his office, talking very rationally with his wife and daughter, he suddenly jumped up, exclaiming, "I am attracted!" and dashed himself head foremost against a large iron safe. Unfortunately, he struck the sharp corner, split his head and died instantly.

WHY complain of our unfinished stone pile called a monument, at the junction of State and Second streets. Neither Clay, Calhoun, Webster, Hamilton, Harrison nor Stevens has a monument.—State Journal.

Truely these were all great men, but they never gave their lives for their country. Calhoun was a great scholar, but he was an erratic—bad man, and out of his false and diabolical doctrine of State Rights, grew the Slaveholder's rebellion, which cost the country half a million of lives. He deserves nothing but a monument of infamy, which we think has been completed. Great as were the other men named, the humblest soldier who gave his life that the nation might live, is greater than they, "and is more worthy of a monument. For a good man, some would even dare to die."

IT is a rare thing that physicians give any countenance to a medicine, the manufacture of which is a secret. About the only exception we know of is Johnson's Anodyne Liniment. This, we believe, all endorse, and many of them use it in their practice with great success.

Persons requiring purgatives or pills should be careful what they buy. Some pills not only cause griping pains, but leave the bowels open in a torpid, costive state. Parsons' Purgative Pills will relieve the bowels and cleanse the blood without injury to the system.

—Notwithstanding the pressure of their South Improvement grievances the Titusville papers can still afford to indulge in merriment. The Courier of yesterday says: The Pittsburg Post calls the women's righters "hen demagogues." The editor should be appointed a lay-member immediately.

Household Sins.

Some cooks will throw out the water in which meats have been boiled, without letting it cool to take off the fat.

Bits of meat are thrown out which would make hashed meat or hash.

The flour is sifted in a wasteful manner, and the bread-pan left with the dough sticken to it.

Pie-crust is laid by to sour instead of making a few tarts for tea.

Cold puddings are considered good for nothing, when o tentimes they can be steamed for the next day.

Dish cloths are thrown down where mice destroy them.

Vegetables are often thrown away that would warm nicely for breakfast.

The scrubbing brush is left in the water.

Tubs and barrels are left in the sun to dry and fall apart.

Nice handled knives are thrown into hot water.

Silver spoons are used to score kettles.

Cream is allowed to mould and spoil.

Coffee, tea, and pepper and spices are left to stand open and lose their strength.

The cork is left out of the molasses jug, and the flies take possession.

Vinegar is drawn in a tin basin and allowed to stand until both basin and vinegar are spoiled.—Nat. Independent.

Care of Implements.

There is probably no text on which more preaching is done by the agricultural press then that which heads this article. And yet farmers are either forgetful of the lesson, or are too careless of their own interests to act upon it. We were especially reminded of this by seeing, in the course of a ride of ninety miles through an average agricultural district, the following tools lying out exposed to the weather, viz: Forty-four plows, twenty-three harrows, seven mowers, a reaper with beater and platform as last used, wagons too numerous to count, and, in one instance a set of harness hanging on a fence. The plows were mostly sticking in the furrow where they had been used. Now, it is natural to suppose that the owners of all these tools and implements never see an agricultural paper, or they could not resist the reiterated advice to take better care of their property of such a perishable nature. It is safe to say that these tools, kept under cover when not in use, will last more than twice as long as they will when exposed to rain and sun. The loss is thus a serious one, and we regret when we think that we can not reach such farmers by a word of advice.

ROTATION OF CROPS IN NATURE.—It is generally considered that the principle of rotation in crops is a modern discovery, and yet nature has worked in this way from the commencement. Proofs of this are seen in the vegetable remains of rocks and coal beds, and even now we see the same principle at work whenever we cut down a pine woods, which if allowed to grow in timbers again is replaced with deciduous trees, as oaks, beeches, maples, etc., while beech or maple or oak wood cut off will be replaced with pines. Here is undoubtedly rotation of crops, and we merely follow nature when we adopt the principle in our agricultural operations.

Useful Hints.

Flowers can be kept sweet and fresh by placing in the vase a few nails. The sulphur eliminated from the plans combined with iron, keeps the water pure.

It is not generally known that the leaves of a geranium are an excellent application for cuts, where the skin is rubbed off, and other wounds of that kind. One or two leaves must be bruised and applied to the part, and the wound will be cicatrixed in a short time.

One cord of wood cut and split fine and corded up beneath a shelter while it is yet green, will furnish more heat after it has become seasoned than two cords of the same kind of wood which has been continually exposed to the alternate influences of storm and sunshine.

Put a loaf of stale bread in a clean tin, and cover closely to exclude all water, and set into a steamer, or a kettle of boiling water, for half an hour; then remove from the tin, and it will look like fresh bread, and be really almost equal to a new loaf.

Cleansing silver is not an easy task, but the use of kerosene will greatly facilitate the operation.—Wet a flannel cloth in the oil, dip in dry whiting, and thoroughly rub the plate or silver ware; throw it into a dish of scalding soapsuds, wipe with a soft flannel and polish with a chamois skin.

Poor Potatoes.

Half the people who eat potatoes to day will find them cutting like a piece of bar soap, and not much agreeable to the taste. The fault according to a lady writer in the Household, is not in the tubers, but in the cook. She says she never has any but dry mealy potatoes on her table. and this is her modus operandi of preparation:

If old, I pare them and let them remain in cold water several hours. When time to cook I put them in a kettle of boiling water "salt as brine." When they are boiled sufficiently, I turn off the water and set the kettle on the fire till the steam has all dried out. Prepare in this way, old potatoes are delicious and wholesome New potatoes need not be pared. nor need they remain in cold water. Wash them thoroughly, and if there are any rough places cut them off. I place them in boiling salted water, and when done always pour the water off and place them over the fire again.

THE TOMATO.—Dr. Bennett, a professor of some celebrity, considers the tomato an invaluable article of diet, and describes to it very important medical properties:

1. That the tomato is one of the most powerful aperients of materia medica, and that in all those affections of the liver and organs where calomel is indispensable, it is probably the most effective and least harmful remedial agent known to the profession.

2 That a chemical extract pill can be obtained from it which will altogether supersede the use of calomel in the cure of disease.

3. That he has successfully treated diarrhœa with this article alone.

4 That when used as an article of diet, it is almost a sovereign remedy for dyspepsia and indigestion.

5. That the citizens in ordinary health should make use of it either raw, cooked, or in the form of a catsup, with their daily food, as it is a most healthy article.

MANURE is like money. The more you have, the easier it is to make more. You cannot grow a big crop of mangolds without through cultivation, and a heavy dressing of manure. But when you have got the mangolds the lands is not only in a splendid condition for future crops, but the consumption of the mangolds, besides being of great benefit to stock, leaves a splendid lot of rich manure. We can raise just as good mangolds here as they can in England—in fact, rather better, as our hotter climate matures them more perfectly, and renders them more nutritious. We can easily grow twenty-five tons per acre, and as the manure from a ton of mangolds is worth $1 07, we have left from each acre of mangolds, besides the leaves, manure worth $26 75.

THE BORER.—After a long and patient experiment, a California horticulturist discovered that petroleum would kill the borer that infests the orchards of the Golden State. The fact was made known far and wide; and many fruit growers availed themselves of the valuable discovery. By their experiments the further fact was established that petroleum not only killed the borer but the tree.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons or ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic,

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article! A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

SPEAR FOR THESE REMEDIES.
Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

Or Wasting away of the Body.
REMEMBER
THAT
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S
PODOPHYLLIN,
Or Substitue for Mercury Pills.
TWO PILLS A DOSE.
The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it specially from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, REGULATES the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can remain a hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. Aver's Cathartic Pills
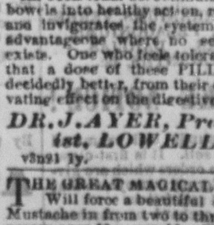
For all the the Purpose of a Laxative medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is commercially required by everybody a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every county and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill.—The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cures them: those who have not, knows that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousand upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterous drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions from the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, BILLIOUS HEADACHE, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE or GREEN SICKNESS, BILLIOUS COLIC and BILLIOUS FEVERS, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back or Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For DROPSY and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

THE GREAT MAGICAL HAIR FORCER

Will force a beautiful set of Whiskers or Mustache in from two to three months, on any person over 12 years old. It is one of the best preparations to make the whiskers grow, that ever was known. One bottle of it is sufficient to produce a very strong beard. It does not in any way stain or injure the skin. Try it—it is no humbug. Price 25 cents per bottle, or four for $1. Sent by mail, post-paid, to any address, on receipt of price. Address, WM. C. WARNER, Arendsville, Adams co., Pa. v2-33-1y.

Ayer's
Hair Vigor,
For restoring Grey Hair to its natural Vitality & Color.

A dress which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Fresh or gray hair is restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparation dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a

HAIR DRESSING,

nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

RHEUMATISM
NEURALGIA
$5000 WILL BE PAID

5000 Reward offered to the Proprietors any Medicine for Rheumatism and Neuralgia ever to produce as many genuine living cures made within the same period of time as Dr. Fitler's Vegetable Rheumatic Remedy—the scientific prescription of an eminent educated physician, and the only reliable specific ever discovered.

$2000 Reward offered to any Person proving Jos. P. Fitler, M. D. to be other than a graduate of the celebrated University of Pennsylvania in 1823, and Professor of Chemistry and Toxicology.

$1000 Reward to any Chemist Physician, or others able, To discover Iodide of Potassa Colchicum, Mercury, or anything injurious to the system in Dr. Fitler's Rheumatic Syrup.

$250 Reward for the name of any preparation for Rheumatism and Neuralgia warranted and sold under a similar legal guarantee, setting forth the exact number of bottles to cure or return the amount paid for same to the patient in case of failure to cure. Full description of cases requiring guarantee must be forwarded by letter to Philadelphia. The guarantee, signed and stating quantity to cure, will be returned by mail with advice and instructions without any charge. Address letters Dr. J. P. Fitler, 45 South Fourth Street. No other remedy is offered on such honorable terms.

$100 Reward is offered for any case of Neuralgia or Rheumatism of any form, pronounced curable, that DR. FITLER'S RHEUMATIC SYRUP will not cure. The proof that no other specific exists is found in every community in persons afflicted for many year past and still suffering. If physicians could cure all, if a specific did exist, this would be it. Dr. Fitler's Vegetable Rheumatic Syrup is sold by Druggists at $1,75 per bottle—six bottles $8,50. BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, March 13th, 1872.

Don't forget the Grand Ball of the "Social Six," in Bush's Hall, Wednesday, April 3rd. No D. B's., or disreputable characters admitted.

Dental.—Dr. J. D. Wingate is again in town and preparing to leave permanently on April 1st, next. Persons desirous of dental operations must not wait until packing up time.

Attention.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Graham & Son. See that beautiful man in the picture, in the very act of drawing on a pair of inimitable boots, manufactured by this old and reliable firm. Call and see them.

Style.—We are authorized to say that John Powers is the only shoemaker that strictly follows the style. He has just recieved a large lot of the most fashionable lasts, and is now prepared to furnish his customers with the latest style of boots—the latest style of button Gaiters, &c., &c. He continues to sell Boots and Shoes, 40 per cent. lower than they can be purchased elsewhere. He says he will make his words good.

We call the serious attention of all persons interested, to the important communication in another column of this issue, signed "Lumberman." The article is written by a practical lumberman, and a large owner of timber lands in this State and in Maine. It is to be hoped that the "Lumbermen's Exchange," to be organized at Williamsport, will take this subject in hand and adopt such measures as will put a stop to the wilful waste of timber in this State.

A Meeting of the citizens of the Borough of Bellefonte, will be held in the Court House on Saturday evening, at 7½ o' clock, for the purpose of taking into consideration the best interests of the Borough, and discussing the merits of a Bill relative to the Borough now pending in the State Legislature transferring the water works to a company. Let the citizens turn out. Let every male resident be present.

Jas. H. Rankin,
Clerk of Town Council.

Fire.—On last Wednesday, March 6th, between the hours of five and six o'clock, P. M., the dwelling house of Jas. Rowen, in Union tp., caught fire, supposed to have caught from the flew, and before any assistance or help could be rendered, it was consumed. Mr. Rowen lost all his household goods, except a few bed-cloths. Two of his daughters who were living with him, lost all their furniture, wearing apparel, &c. It is a total loss. No insurance. Mr. Rowen and his daughters loss over $1000 worth of personal property, and the house which belonged to him cost $1200. It leaves him poor indeed. He is an honest, hard working man—a puddler at Valentine's works. We hope a liberal community will see that he does not suffer in his old days.

Ball and Murder.—On Monday night the 4th inst., there was a ball, or rather a dance—a low dance, at the Cummings House, in this town. It appears from all we can learn that many of our young men went there without invitations, with a fixed determination to annoy the landlord Mr. Gates, and to have a dance, a fight, or at least all the whiskey they could drink. It was to say the least of it, a rowdy affair, a disgrace not only to the Cummings House, but to the town.

Some time, about 11½ o'clock P. M. John Hanna a young man aged about 22 years; became so intoxicated that he was carried to a room in the Attic, and there put to bed to remain as they said until he would become sober. The dance ended about 11 o'clock, on account of the turbulence of the crowd.

At about half past 12 O'clock the dancers had all left the house and Jno. Hanna was still in bed. The next morning it was discovered that Mr. Hanna had been beaten in a most brutal manner and carried home (for he could not have walked) and placed inside the door of his fathers house. It was nearly morning when he was taken home. A physician was sent for, who on it was discovered that his skull was fractured and that he was otherwise badly bruised. His Physician declared his recovery impossible. He lived until Wednesday night about 8 o'clock when death put an end to his suffering.

A jury was summoned, and an inquest held, but the jury is yet in session, meeting from day to day investigating the case. As they sit with closed doors, and admit but one witness at a time of course we know nothing in regard to the progress they are making. We sincerely hope that they may succeed in ascertaining who the guilty parties are, and that they may be brought to condign and merited punishment. Without speaking disparagingly of our present Police force we must say that if Col. Shortlidge had been at the head of the police, this investigation, would not now be going on, for Jno. Hanna would not have been murdered. Full particulars next week.

The last lecture of the Undine course for this season, by Hon. Fred. Douglas, at Reynolds' Hall, Tuesday, March 5th, was a decided success. At 8 o'clock, the Hall was well filled with a most genteel and appreciative audience, who were most politely ushered to their seats, without the slghest confusion. The Lecturer when appearing on the stage was greeted with applause, as he was frequently throughout his entire discourse. Mr. Douglass launched forth some valuable and enduring truths, relative to man's individual successes and reverses in life. That "Self Made Men," are the offspring of indefatigable toil, and incessant industry and effort—that these men are successfully self made, who in traveling a far way, in science, art and literature, make the road upon which they travel, and those who ascend to the grandest heights in wealth, power, and influence, build for themselves the ladder upon which they climb. That the accident, fortune, luck, and providence, to which we are so apt to impute the successes of our men of power and influence, is not so much owing to those varied chances, as they are the results of their own untiring energy and industrious labor. In short he argued, that the man of worth is the man of work. That work is the great Keystone that supports the bridge of a man's success. That aristocratic birth and lineage; fortune inherited; a large endowment by nature of genius and talent, without work and a systematic use of them, make their possessors a miserable failure.

That prayer without work and an energetic use of the means we possess to make ourselves useful happy and prosperous, and to elevate us to a higher scale of being, is a failure. And the man who prays most and works least, is generally much worse off than the one who works most and prays less.

The Lecturer then argued that no country was so fertile in its production of successfully "Self Made Men," as our own. That the genius of our institutions, and the universal respect paid to labor in our country were the potent agencies of their production. On the whole, the lecture was a valuable production, abounding in wholesome and practical truths; giving fair and intelligent explanations of man's individual success in life, and filled with a wit and spice, which gave it a seasoning, most palatable to the audience.

The management was good and most satisfactory.

The two entertainments given our people under the auspices of the Undine Fire Co., and the manner of their conducting, have been highly satisfactory, and reflect great credit upon the company. The liberal patronage extended to their efforts, is worthy our citizens.

The success of the Company in this their trial effort, promises fair to ensure us a full course of lectures next season, by the ablest and most polished Orators in the field. They have already arranged for Gough, Wendell Philips, and Charles Sumner. We say success attend their efforts.

Bush House.—This large and commodious House has been repainted, papered, and to some extent furnished with new and elegant furniture. The Proprietors, W. H. Wilkinson & Co., formerly of Trenton N. J. are both intelligent, kind and accomodating men, and understand, in the fullest sense of the word, how to keep a Hotel. They will open the House to-day (Wednesday) for the accomodation of the traveling community. The Proprietors pledge themselves to devote their entire attention to their business and to make the Bush House what guests so much admire a pleasant Home-like Hotel. The pleasure loving and health seeking people of our great Cities should remember that Bellefonte is one of the most romantic as well as one of the most healthy towns in the United States. Here you can find pleasure and recuperate your health. Here in the surrounding country, you can fish and hunt, and returning with abundance of game, as the reward of your labors, sit down to a table at the Bush House, borne down with the luxuries of life, and with appetites sharp and keen, enjoy a meal as you never enjoyed a meal before, and as you never can enjoy a meal at Saratoga, Atlantic City or at any of the other fashionable Summer resorts. Come to Bellefonte and spend the hot summer months. You will find the best of accomodations and reasonable bills, but best of all you will find health, strength, repose comfort, and be able to return to the city rejuvenated, made whole—new men and new and beautiful women.

On Friday Evening last, the citizens of Wallace Run, organized a Debating Society by electing Geo. Taylor, President, and Wm. Marks and James Lucas, Vice President. The following question was taken up and discussed: Resolved, "That more information can be desired from Reading than Traveling" Discussed by Adam Witherite, Jas. Witherite, John Resides, Jacob Walker, W. A. Tobias and others. The judge selected, decided in favor of the negative. This society meets once every week. Let the people of that vicinity attend this society and reap the benefits to be derived, for surely, if they are carried on in a proper manner, much good will result.

For the Republican.

Oscegola, March 6th, 1872.

Mr. Editor:—Being obliged to wait here several hours for the train, I feel inclined to say a few words to the lumbermen on the West Branch of the Susquehanna, on a subject of common interest.

I reside in one of the lumber States, and have there been connected with timber land and lumber, for thirty years, and have seen the remainder of the old growth of pine cut off; and am therefore the more deeply impressed with the enormous waste of timber, involved in your present system of stocking logs.

When I first became interested among these mountains, the stumpage of pine, on the banks of streams down which logs could be floated, was worth from fifty cents to a dollar a thousand.

It was then natural and sensible to leave in the woods, all the logs, which had defect. The buts which had only a little shake, the tops which would make only coarse boards, and all logs that had any not, were of course left.

Now, the stumpage on streams, which have to be made drivable at great expense, sells for, from five to eight dollars, and judging from the price of boards is worth more. Yet the mode of cutting logs remains the same. The last fifteen or twenty years have increased the value of the pine trees ten hundred per cent., but have produced no corresponding economy in saving the timber.

But there are some men who stock and saw their own logs, who, in general, take the whole tree from the stump to where it will cut off ten inches, leaving to waste on the ground or for the fire, only the butts that are very shaky, the top logs when the knots are rotten or very large, and the knotty logs which are at least half rotten.

By cutting the butt log 12 feet long, and manufacturing it carefully with a single saw, generally one-half of the boards will be the best in the tree, worth from thirty to sixty dollars a thousand, and the other half will be culls, which will pay all the expenses.

It costs but ten dollars a thousand to take the log that is half rotten from the ground, when it is in the way, and put it in seasoned boards on the mill yard.—The sound half of the boards will be worth twenty dollars a thousand, or more, and so will pay the whole cost, leaving the defective half, worth from six to twelve dollars a thousand for profit. But, I believe, it is not usual now to haul a log in which any rot can be discovered. The top log, if the knots are sound and not very large, will make boards worth a moderate stumpage, over and above all the cost.

The manufacture of lumber has been very profitable, but that profit cannot continue after the lumber is gone, so it it is for the interest of the mill owner to unite with the land owner, in framing a new set of rules, adapted to the present price of lumber and the present system of waste. The movement ought to be general. It will be difficult for one man to adopt a rule of economy, while others are continuing in the old way.

If the "Lumbermen's Exchange," now in contemplation, should be organized, this would be a very proper subject for its early consideration.

The land-owners, mill-owners and operating lumbermen on the West Branch, ought, in some way, to move in this matter, for their own interest, and in justice to their fellow citizens, and to the generations that are to follow.

To the timber lands of Pennsylvania in particular, the principle has great force, that the owner of property has no moral right to destroy or waste it, but should consider himself only as a trustee for his race, bound to take the best care of it, and manage it in the most judicious manner, applying it to his own use only with economy and moderation.

Lumberman.

Drunkenness has increased to such an extent throughout France of late that the Government has found it necessary to give it attention. The National Assembly has taken the matter in hand, and there is little doubt that active measures will be resorted to with a view of suppressing the vice. A proposition has been introduced into the House, which, if adopted, will entail a punishment on lovers of the ardent who indulge in this much-deplored failing. According to the proposed law a first offense will be punished lightly, a second by imprisonment and fine, and a subsequent offense will entail the forfeiture of electorial rights. The idea of depriving a man of franchise because of indulgence in the "flowing bowl" is rather a novel way of punishing citizens who will have their beer. If they must have it, however, they must take there consequences with it.

For the Republican.

Messrs Editors:—I have been looking in every issue of the Republican, since the publication by the Commissioners and Auditors of the Receipts and Expenditurs of Centre Co., for you, or some one else, to ventilate the same, and am glad to see that "Cato" has taken up the cudgel and proposes to give it a complete airing. Go in, "Cato." Probe it to the bottom—you will find a sore sufficiently corrupted to sink the Court House Ring so low, to bury them so deep that the hand of the political resurrection never can reach them.

Tax-payers read his communication, and ponder well the same, then at the next election go to the polls and vote so as to hurl these leeches, these blood suckers, from office, and place reliable, honest men in their places.

We in this vicinity have not forgotten the infamous treatment we received at the hands of these cormorants when we humbly prayed for a small pittance to help us in our extremity. We, being burthened down with taxation, asked for a few dollars of money that actually belonged to us; but it was against the law to help us build a bridge, yet, appropriations had been made, time and again, for other places for the same purpose. But we dare them to make an other such appropriation for any other place, without first repenting of their sins and making reparation to Huston twp., for the injury and insult offered her.

We have built the bridge ourselves, and a good one at that, and, although, we have to pay our quota towards building palaces and furnishing other luxuries for these County officials, we will pay for it ourselves, and no thanks to them. I feel no hesitancy in saying that had this been a Democratic, or rather a copperhead twp., there would have been no trouble in getting what we asked for; but the large Republican majorities that each year are returned from this township, have raised the ire of these amiable gentlemen, and hence the ill-treatment received at their hands. But, look out for larger Republican majorities in the future, than in the past, as all parties are alike aggrieved. So, go in, "Cato." Give them particular "Hail Columbia," and we will stand at your back.

Locust.

March is usually represented as a blustering time. Not so with all it brings forth. For instance Demorest's Young America, although anything but quiet, has no bluster. MARRIED.

On the 6th inst., at the residence of the bride's mother by Rev. D. M. Wolf, Mr. David Summy of Penn Grove Mills and Miss Carrie McBride of Spring.

DIED.

In Lock Haven, on the 3d inst., Emma, wife of Samuel W. Askey, aged 24 years, 11 months and 2 days.

At his residence in Walker township on the 5th inst., John Zimmerman, aged 87 years, 5 months and 20 days.

Mr. Zimmerman has been a resident of Walker twp., since the year 1812. He has raised a large and respectable family, all good and useful citizens. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church for over sixty years, has always led an exemplary christain life, and has now passed away to that abode prepared for the children of God.

On the 17th ult, at the residence of Mrs. Gordon, in this place, Mrs Rebecca Steel, aged 94 years.

She was the wife of Robert Steel, still living, and the daughter of Col. James Dunlop, the founder of Bellefonte and former owner of the site of the town. Col. Dunlop was one of the original settlers of the County and was a Colonel in the Revolutionary War. She lived the life of a christian and her end was peace.

On Saturday night, the 9th inst., Willie Lala, infant and only son of Joe. W. and Mary A. Furey, aged five months and 15 days.

No bitter tears for thee be shed,
Blossom of being; seen and gone!
With flowers alone, we strew thy bed
O! bide departed one
Whose all of life a rosy ray,
Blushed into dawn and passed away.

Yes! thou art fled, ere guilt had power
To stain thy cherub soul and form,
Closed is the soft ephemeral flower,
That never felt a storm!
The sunbeam's smile, the zephyr's breath,
All that it knew from birth to death.

Thou wert so like a form of light,
That Heaven benignly called the hence,
Ere yet the world could breathe one blight
O'er thy sweet innocence:
And thou, that brighter home to bless,
Art passed! with all thy loveliness.

Oh! hadst thou still on earth remained,
Vision of beauty! fair as brief!
How soon thy brightness had been stained
With passion, or with grief!
Now not a sullying breath can rise,
To dim thy glory in the skies.

We rear no marble o'er thy tomb,
No sculptured image there shall mourn;
Ah! fitter far the vernal bloom
Such dwelling to adorn
Fragrance, and flowers, and dews, must be
The only emblems meet for thee.

Thy grave shall be a blessed shrine,
Adorned with Nature's brightest wreath,
Each glowing season shall combine
Its incense there to breathe;
And oft upon the midnight air
Shall viewless harps be murmering there.

And Oh! sometimes in vision blest,
Sweet spirit! visit our repose,
And bear from thine own world of rest,
Some balm for human woes!
What form more lovely could be given
Than thine, to messenger of Heaven?

B.

STATE POLITICS.

In a speech at the installation of the new Collector of the Port of Philadelphia, on Saturday, Col. Forney warmly advocated the renomination of General Grant.

The Republican Committee of Allegheny county met on Tuesday the 5th, and designated Tuesday, the 2d of April, for holding the County Convention for selecting delegates to the State Convention.

The Reading Dispatch says: "There is some talk among the politicians of Western Pennsylvania of the nomination of Hon. J. Lawrence Getz, our member of Congress, as the Democratic candidate for Governor."

At the Republican Convention of Armstrong county, held on the 5th, W. H. H. Piper was chosen delegate to the State Convention. The Convention was unanimous in its preference for Ketchum for Governor.

The Democratic County Committee of Fayette county, met in the Court House on Monday, the 4th inst., and instructed their delegates to the State Convention to vote for Col. Scott for President, and Gen. Cass for Governor.

Hon. W. H. Kountz has been elected Representative delegate from Somerset county, to the Republican State Convention. He is said to favor the nomination of Col. Frank Jordan for Governor. Senatorial conferees with like predilections were appointed.

At the last Republican County Convention of Northumberland Co., R. M. Frick, Esq., was appointed Representative delegate to the State Convention.—W. L. Leslbit, Esq., was selected as the Senatorial delegate, with power to appoint his own conferees.

The Republican County Committee of Columbia county met at Bloomsburg on Monday, March 4th, and appointed J. Harry James representative delegate to the State convention, with instruction to support Hon. W. W. Ketchum for Governor, and Hon U. Mercur for Supreme Judge.

The Republicans of Forest county met in county convention at Tionesta, on the 29th ult., and appointed J. H. Patrick representative delegate to the Republican State Convention, with instructions to support Gen. John F Hartranft for Governor, and Hon. I. G. Gordon for Supreme Judge.

The Republicans of Montgomery county on Thursday the 7th inst., nominated for State Senator, in the place of Hon. Henry S. Evans, deceased, Daniel H. Mulvaney, Esq., of Norristown. Mr. Mulvaney is a prominent member of the Montgomery Bar, three counties comprising the district.

The Democrats of Lebanon county met in convention recently, and selected Wm. B. Kraider, of Cornwall, for Senatorial delegate to the Reading convention. John W. Harbeson, of Lebanon, was chosen representative delegate. For Governor the delegates are uninstructed. The convention declared General Hancock the choice of the Democrats of Lebanon county for President.

We clip the following from the Erie Dispatch: "We hear it intimated as among the possibilities, if not probabilities, that Hon. Isaac B. Gara, of Erie, may be among the candidates for the next Republican nomination for Congress. We suppose he would not make premature mention of his name in connection with this position, but we deemed it not improper to simply state what we have heard."

The Republicans of Northampton county on Saturday, says the Pittsburg Mail, March 8th, elected delegates to the State Convention, instructed for Gen. Hartranft for Governor, and Hon. Henry Green, of Northampton, for Supreme Judge. The Republicans of Perry Co., on Monday, elected their representative delegate to the State Convention, with instructions to vote for Gen. Hartranft. If a few other counties instruct their delegates in the same way, Gen. Hartranft will be nominated on the first ballot. There seems to be now no doubt of his nomination.

The Harrisburg correspondent of the Bedford Inquirer writes: "Among those talked of for Supreme Judge, are: Gordon, of Jefferson; Williams, of Tioga; Mercur, of Bedford, and Butler and Smith, of Chester. The friends of Gordon are working very energetically for him, and the chances now favor his nomination. He is a man eminently qualified for the position, and would add strength to the Republican ticket. In anticipation of the election of Auditor General there is some talk as to the probable candidate. Among the names mentioned are Gen. Allen, of Warren; Ex-Senator Brown, of Mercer; Ex-Representative Shurlock, of Beaver, and Senator Billington, of Lancaster."

—Julia Ray Scott (colored) had a party the other night at her residence in Milford, and soon after putting a stick of wood in her stove a loud explosion was heard, and top of stove went heavenward with a crash. Julia says some hunter must have shot into the tree from which the stick was cut and the powder stuck in it. But the popular opinion is that the wood came from the pile of a neighbor who had put up the job on Julia.

"How to go West."—Forty years ago, Illinois was as far West as most people wished to go, and journeys were made in the legendary "Prairie Schooner," but in these days of Progress and Improvement, the word West has come to mean Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, California and the Territories, and the Traveler reaches almost any point therein by a splendid Line of Railroad.

This Line of Railroad is the Burlington Route, which starts from Chicago over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., from Indianapolis over the Indianapolis, Bloomington & Wester Short Line, and from Logansport, over the Toledo, Peoria & Warsaw R. R., and running through Burlington, reaches Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, St, Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth and Kansas City, connecting with the Union Pacific, Kansas, Pacific and other Railroads running from those cities.

Always go "By way of Burlington," and you will be sure to be right.

The Burlington Route has admirably answered the question, "How to go West?" by the publication of a truthful and interesting document, filled with facts in regard to Time, Connections, Accommodations, rates of Fare and other interesting items, and illustrated by a large map, truthfully showing the whole West, which they distribute free of charge. Copies, and additional information, can be obtained by addressing, General Passenger Agent, B. & M. R. R., Burlington, Iowa. 4-3-3m.

To the Citizens of Centre County and Elsewhere.

Your attention is particularly requested to the following certificate referring to those old established remedies, "Hoofland's German Bitters" and "Hoofland's German Tonic," from that well known citizen,

IRA C. MITCHELL, ESQ.:

"Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 27, 187

Sir:—I have just had the pleasure of meeting your Agent, the first representative of "Hoofland's German Bitters" and "Hoofland's German Tonic," it has ever been my good fortune to meet. For many year I have been purchasing and using them to the great comfort of myself, family and friends, having commenced their use on the recommendations of the Supreme Court Judges of this State. It affords me pleasure to have the opportunity to voluntarily recommend the same to all of my friends and acquaintances who may be suffering from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness or affections of the Liver, of a any kind.

Very Respectfully,
IRA C. MITHELL."

These medicines are and have been well known to the community for the last twenty-five years, as genuine, reliable and deserving remedies for the diseases mentioned in the above certificate. Those afflicted should not fail to use them. Sold by all Druggists. C. M. Evans, Proprietor, 631, Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 3-50-1y

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A Card.—We take this method of saying that there is no truth in the reports that have been circulated, "that we intend quitting the coal business as soon as our present supply is sold out." On the contrary we have on hands now and intend to keep on hand a well selected stock of the best Anthracite coal in the market.

Dead Men Tell No Tales: if they did, anathemas against the depleting lancet, the drastic purge, and the terrible salivants of the materia medica, would arise from every graveyard. The motto of modern medical science is "Preserve and Regulate, not destroy," and no remedy of our day is so entirely in harmony with this philanthropic logic as Dr. Walker's Vegetable Vinegar Bitters. In this powerful yet harmless restorative, dyspepsia, bilious complaints, and all diseases of the stomach, liver, bowels and nerves, encounter an irresistible antidote. 10-4t

THE SECRET ERRORS OF YOUTH,

Which are hurrying so many thousands of the bright and promising youth of both sexes to early and unhonored graves, are but the outcroppings of a diseased imagination. Indisposition to exertion, loss of power, loss of memory, difficulty of breathing, weak nerves, trembling, horror of disease, dimness of vission, pain in the back, hot hands, flushing of the body, dryness of the skin, pallid countenance and a universal lassitude of the muscular system, are among the most frequent symptoms.

BE WARNED IN TIME.

Michler's Herb Bitters is the only sure remedy. It has cured thousands and will cure you. TRY IT AND BE CONVINCED.
